New Mexico.

We believe that in a quaint old instrument entitled the "Declaration of Independence" there is something said about governments deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; but such absurdities had passed away from the memory of our rulers a good long time before the ratification of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. By that treaty a people numbering more than sixty thousand were conveyed over to the government of the United States, not only without their consent, but also without any consultation whatever with them by either those who sold or those who bought them. This would certainly have been very queer behaviour in truly democratic governments, and may possibly have surprised such people as believe that our professions of democracy are all in right down earnest! But it did not surprise us in the least degree, as we had lived long enough to know that the brightest fires do not send up the most smoke, nor the purest republicans utter the loudest boasts of republicanism.

New Mexico contains 61,547 persons-viz: 538 natives of the United States, 262 natives of foreign countries, and 60,747 native Mexicans and Pueblo Indians-the last named of whom are by all accounts represented to be a worthy, industrious, and excellent people.

It would not be surprising to learn that a people thus circumstanced would, at least for a time, prove refractory, insubordinate, and troublesome. Yet such is not the case. They have acquiesced with a very good grace in the arrangement they could not prevent; and although, in our civil and military jurisdiction over them, we have committed some such errors as were calculated to discredit our government, they have submitted to our laws, and even to their abuse, with scarcely a murmur.

The manifestation of such a spirit as this calls for a kindly feeling on the part of our people, and demands that we should at least begin to indicate some regard for our own first proposition in the science of government-that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. We think that every possible inducement should be held out to these people that can lead them to confidence in the free character of our institutions, and to self-reliance in the conduct of their public affairs. An opposite course of conduct on our part will be unwise in policy and disreputable in its nature. .

From a debate in the House of Representatives on Saturday last, chiefly between Mr. Phelps. of Missouri, and Mr. Weightman, of New Mexico, we learn that there is contention between two parties in that Territory-the 60,747 Mexicans. on the one side, and the 538 former citizens of the United States on the other: or this, at least, is the general aspect of the case. The proposition before the House was to authorize the President "to cause arms to be distributed among such portions of the inhabitants as he may deem advisable, and under such regulations and precautions as may be considered necessary," &c.

When we state that the people of that country are exceedingly harassed by the savage Indians on their borders, who are constantly making incursions among them, murdering their people, pillaging their houses, and driving off their live stock, the above proposition will hardly appear unreasonable to the minds of a liberal public; yet, to our astonishment, it encountered opposition! It was stated by Mr. Phelps that "a large class of those citizens have recently been obliged to change their allegiance, by no act, wish, or will of their own," but "have been transferred from Mexico to the United States. It cannot be expected," he said, "among the ignorant Mexican population of that Territory, that any very great good-will or kind feeling should be manifested or entertained towards the American citizens who may be residing among them." "I am aware." he continued, "that there is some hostility exist ing between the American citizens and the people of New Mexico." "The American-born citizens who are there need no arms to be distributed to them." "There is no American-born citizen in the Territory of New Mexico who is not, at this time, as well armed as he would be if you pass the first section of this bill, and distribute arms to them." And again he says: "I am aware the Mexicans are not well supplied with arms; in fact, they have but few, and those have been mainly obtained since we conquered that country. It was not the policy of the Mexican governmentperhaps for the want of means-to arm its citizens in New Mexico. The greater part of those people have become citizens. They are of themselves without the means of defence. They look entirely to the government for protection. If arms were distributed to them, they would pass by sale or barter from one to another, until they might pass into the hands of some of the Indians." Yet Mr. Phelps is not unconscious of the dangers to which this people are exposed ; for he says that " there robberies and murders are as often committed against the Pueblo Indians as against the white man. And that class of people are the most quiet, peaceable, industricus, and unoffending of the citizens of New Mexico, and by some who have visited that Territory are termed its best citizens. I mean of those which we have acquired by the treaty with

Mr. Phelps was replied to in becoming terms by Mr. Weightman, who narrated a most lamentable state of affairs.

The governor of the Territory, it appears, has endeavored to keep the little military force sent thither upon the frontiers, that the people may presented to us Harpers' New Monthly for Junebe protected from the Indians, and is for this rich and beautiful in everything.

much abused by the people from the States, who ontend that they should be kept in the chief towns, that the government and the Americans may be protected from the native citizens !- and Mr. Weightman read certain papers, which show hat the army expenses are greatly diminished upon the frontiers, and that the traffickers from the States are dissatisfied with the state of business while the custom of the army is lost to

The losses to the farmers and graziers, in cattle riven away by the Indians, is equal to half a nillion a year!

This is the protection our government is giving o New Mexico; and yet a proposition to arm he people is opposed in the Congress of the United States!

Such facts as these, if they were not true would be pronounced impossible. We cannot ommand our patience to dwell upon the subject. Wer were of those who believed that New Mexico sho ald never have been added to our domain wit hout the consent of the governed; and we now beli eve they should not be retained without that con sent. May it be procured by the exercise on our part of justice, mercy, magnanimity, and fra ternal good will. Let us arm the citizens of the whole Territory, trust to their fidelity, and giv e to them every possible advantage as member s of our republic. "If ever," said Mr. We ightman, "there has been a people who une fer our government, have been harassed and opt ressed, it is the people of New Mexico. I wil I not here, in my place, under these circum sta nces, when it is proposed to deny to the people of New Mexico the poor boon of defending theme ives against the attacks of the savage foes by w hom they are surrounded-I will not extenuate th e neglect of the government, or the conduct wl tich many of my countrymen in New Mexico have pursued towards the New Mexicans." We are gratified that the Territory has so true, so wor thy, and so able a representative. With the esti mable governor of New Mexico, he has proved a ti ue friend of the people he represents, and he will have a righteous triumph with them.

The remarks of Mr. Venable, of North Caroling . were well-timed and just, at the close of the deb ate to which we allude. With an honorable regard for the rights of the people, and a full con fidence in their fidelity, he said:

" It is a perfect phantom of the imagination that; the people of Oregon or New Mexico will furnish the Indians, who are daily plundering them of their property, rendering their lives unsafe, and driving them from their homes, with the arms with which they are furnished for their own protection by the United States. It would be to presum e that men would war against the instinct of self-protection and self-preservation. The cheripest and the most efficient mode of protecting our frontiers is to place arms in the hands of those who have the deepest interest in that protection."

The Trappers!

The Union of this morning is very hopeful of the prospects of its party, and says:

"The evidences of a universal determination to really upon the cardinal principles of Democracy-to stand in defence of the great pacificatory policy embraced in the Compromise measures of th ast Congress-are too palpable to be overlooked or mi sunderstood."

As Hale, King, and others, of the North and the Democracy of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, &c., in the South, are opposed to the "pacificatory policy," we shall be much amazed at a universal rally upon them Certain are we that no declaration of finality car be made in the Democratic Convention to which the Whig Convention cannot assent with equal empliasis. The most lame and impotent attempt ever made by a party is that of our Democratic neighbors to force upon the two national parties the enunciation of declarations that can possibly have no affinity to the "cardinal principles" of which it vaunts. Like woodcocks, however, our friends may be caught in their own springes : though it matters little to us-our candidate is national man, and will soon be a national Presi

Bridge Across the Potomac.

A writer in the Intelligencer of this morning proposes to commence the bridge on E street, in front of the Observatory, in sections of one hundred to two hundred feet, as may be cheapest and best, with stone piers and superstructures of iron, gradually rising to such elevation as may be necessary for vessels to pass under, to a point in the river four hundred feet from the western edge of the present channel. This space to be spanned with a suspension bridge. From the western abutment of the suspension bridge he proposes to cross Analostan island, and the west arm of the river, to a point on the Virginia shore (west of the Alexandria canal) which may be most suitable, in the same manner in which he arrives at the eastern abutment.

Respecting this enterprise, we perceive one very gratifying indication—it is, that Congress is indisposed to waste appropriations in pottering with the old mischievous concern, to remove which is the only good that can be done with it.

Presbyterian Annual General Assembly of the United States. WEDNESDAY, May 26-Fifth Day.

A report on certain memorials respecting slavery was presented, recommending no action in the premises; and the whole subject was set aside.

The subject of educating the ministry was again taken up, and a debate thereon continued until the adjournment. Rev. Mr. Fisher, Rev. Dr. Stearns, and Rev. Dr. Beman participated in this debate.

Parodi To-night!

The Richmond Examiner of yesterday says that Parodi, Strakosch, Madame Strakosch, (Patti,) and Miska Hauser gave the most delightful concert there on last Saturday night that they had heard for two years. The house was filled in every part by a refined and intelligent auditory.

Affairs in Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, May 27-12 m. A fire occurred last night in the corn and plas ter-mill of Mr. Joseph Nicholson, situated upon Water street, which entirely consumed it, to gether with his saw-mill and machine shop, with most of their contents. The engines of our own town, together with several from Washington, were promptly on the spot, and made every effort to suppress the flames, but to no purpose. Mr. Nicholson was insured in the Firemen's Office, in Washington, for $2,000; Empire State Mutual Insurance Company, New York, for $700; and in the Potomac, Georgetown, for $300-which amounts, it is supposed, will nearly cover his oss. There is no doubt that it was the work of an incendiary.

In addition to the many improvements we have already noticed, Mr. Henry Trunnel has nearly completed two large frame dwellings on Prospect

From every direction we hear the most cheering reports of the prosperous appearance of the growing crop of small grain.

We perceive that the Union party of Georgia and the Union party of South Carolina are going to send delegates to the Whig National Convention in favor of the nomination of Mr. Fillmore. If these Union parties first pledge themselves to the support of the nominee of the Convention, it is well. Their movement, it is well known originated in this city.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS. TEMPERANCE CONVENTION AND THE MAY-

ORALTY.

M ESSRS. EDITORS: Having seen it published in the Telegraph of the 25th instant, over the signature of "One of the Convention," that there was a decided feeling in the Convention that the temperance vote should be cast for Gen. Weightman, I will tell you how that feeling was manifested. At a previous meeting of that Convention, there was a committee of twenty-one, consisting of three from each Ward, appointed, part of whose duty it was to select a candidate for Mayor—who, according to a resolution, was to be the nominee of the Convention. Several attempts were made, through public notices in the Telegraph and otherwise, to get that committee to gether—a majority of whom never met. But at this same aneeting, spoken of, in speeches made in the streets and at Temperance Hall by the same "One of the Convention," we having voted nearly three to one to support Gen. Weightas having voted nearly three to one to support Gen. Weightman, seven of the committee—the largest number that could be got to rether—having met just previous to the opening of the meeting spoten of, after having consulted together, agreed to report to the Convention that they considered it inexpedient to nominate any candidate to be voted for by the temperance men, but to leave all free to make their own selection from among the candidates already before them; which report they did make, and, without the report having been received or rejected, some restless spirits, who are never satisfied, either in war or peace, after a good call of slang against some of the candidates, moved that the having voted nearly three to one to support Gen. leal of slang sgainst some of the candidates, moved that Convention give a pledge promising to support Gen. Wei man. Having several times counted the persons pres at no one time did I count but thirty-nine in the meet and when the vote was taken, giving almost three to othere were thirty-two persons present, sixteen voting and six against the motion, and ten not voting, believ and six against the motion, and the not voting, control, control, as some have since told me, best for that meeting to make no such pledge. These are facts that I have given, that temperance men and others who were not at the meeting may know that neither the Convention nor temperance men as a body have selected Gen. Weightman as their canidate, but that it was done by one-half (sixteen) of the meeting spoken of.

THE MAYORALTY.

JOHN W. MAURY is announced as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the ensuing election in June." MANY CITIZENS. MANY CITIZENS.

In making the above announcement, it is deemed prope to say that a large number of citizens of all parties, from the several Wards of the city, addressed to Mr. Maury a few days ago a communication expressing their wish to present is name to his fellow-citizens as a candidate for the Mayor alty at the ensuing election, independent of all questions connected with the politics of the day, and solely in consideration of his long and useful services in the Councils, and of his fitness for the place. This fitness for the place.

"I have received your communication. Whatever might have been my personal wishes on the subject, it would have been difficult for me to resist the friendly call you have made upon me; but, agreeing as I do entirely with all that you have said as to the inexpediency of bringing national politics into our city elections, I most cheerfully place my name at your disposal as a candidate for the Mayorsity at the ensuing election.

THE MAYORALTY.

A S the friends of other candidates for this office are already active in their behalf, I desire to present the name of the present incumbent, WALTER LENOX, esq., for re-election. It is to be expected that personal preference will, to some extent, govern the choice of many, but before the community generally, honest and discerning in its decision, is not the proper question, "What is the public interest?" It must be admitted by every reflecting citizen that sudden and uncalled-for change is not only unjust to interest?" It must be admitted by every reflecting citizen that sudden and uncalled-for change is not only unjust to the officer, but to the public interest. It takes away the personal motive and ambition which induce the faithful performance of duty, and loses to the public the benefit of odicial experience. If the present incumbent has discharged the duties of the office with ability and zeal, and can hereafter bring to it the advantage of practical experience, I trust that the people of Washington will not use the elective franchise to their own injury and the injustice of a public officer.

POTATOES: POTATOES:—ONE HUNDRED BUSHELS NOVA SCOTIA WHITE MERCER POTATOES. They boil white and mealy, and are superior to the Mercers raised here, being not only of fine taste, but having the superior solidity of the English Potato, and therefore will go much further in the use of them. They are also decidedly best for planting here—producing greater crops, in consequence of being the original stock of the Mercer, and from a more northern climate. They are for sale in bags of two bushels, large measure, or in smaller quantities.

Also, one hundred and fifty bushels prime, heavy, and clean Oats, at a bargain; together with family Groceries, among which are Sugars, fine and low, and including prime Butter.

N. B.—White Beans by the bushel.

C. EVANS, 9th street, west end of Centre Market. may 25-3t* TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

A SUPERIOR day and night MOCKING-BIRD was atolen from the premises of the subscriber last night. His perfect imitation of the Red Bird, and other peculiar notes familiar to those who know him, would enable an identity beyond the possibility of a doubt. Should any person offer for sale a bird of the above description, information would be thankfully received, and, upon recovery, the above reward will be cheerfully paid to any person returning him, and no questions asked.
